Why Teemer is Eager to Meet O'Connor Once More.

ANOTHER RACE PROBABLE.

A Remarkable Bid for the Sullivan-Kilrain Prize Fight.

NATIONAL BASE BALL GOSSIP.

Mr. Gasper Invited to France to Establish American Betting Systems.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY.

John Teemer, the ex-champion sculler does not intend to retire into obscurity because of his late defeat by O'Connor. The McKeesporter comes to the front again by desiring another race with O'Connor for the American championship. Teemer has definitely stated his auxiety for another race to a Boston party, but so far has not issued a business-like challenge. This fact at first sight may make it appear that our local champion is talking for prestige rather than being inclined to show action for it. However, a talk with a confidential friend of Teemer last evening seems to dispel all notions or ideas of this kind. Teemer's friend, who, by the way is in a position to know where-

of he talks, said:
"Now, Teemer intends to issue a definite challenge to O'Connor shortly; certainly in time for O'Connor to accept or refuse. Teemer and his friends are convinced that the race at Washington was not a thorough test of the respective abilities of the two rowers.

TEEMER MAY BE BETTER. Of course O'Connor was the better rowe that day, but we are of opinion that Teemer can row a better race than he did. He collapsed sooner than was ever dreamed of either by his friends or himself. The reason is a puzzle even to himself and the only real and definite thing known to us is that we lost the race, the title and our money. We can raise another stake and will assuredly do so if O'Connor will tackle Teemer again. To be sure the Canadian will accept our offer, but whether or race will take place within a reasonable time is another matter. Teemer desires to go time is another matter. Teemer desires to go to Australia, but he wants to row O'Connor again before going there. At any rate O'Connor cannot go to Australia without rowing Teemer again, at least if he does he will go in face of a definite and business-like challenge, which will mean that it is questionable as to whether or not he is the best rower in Canada and America."

In view of the above statements, it seems that we may expect another race between the

that we may expect another race between the McKeesport sculler and the Canadian. This bears out what was stated in these columns immediately after the Washington race. Without a doubt Teerser was fairly outrowed in that event, but the stated causes of defeat were of a kind that would lead anyone to the conclusion that the men must meet again.

that the men must meet again. ONE DEFEAT NOT ENOUGH.

It is seldom, particularly in sculling, that champion is satisfied with one defeat. From Bob Chambers up to Ed Hanlon this fact has been fully demonstrated. Teemer may be able to row a better race than he did against O'Connor, certainly he must needs do so to defeat the Canadian. Evidently the Teemer party believe that their champion can do so.

Teemer, in one respect, has expressed a very pertinent opinion regarding J. A. St. John and Jake Gaudaur. He says that the two last named are "fluore that kits too high" and this Jake Gaudaur. He says that the two last named are "flying their kite too high." and this opinion is based on the fact that Teemer has defeated Gaudaur and is an acknowledged better rower. As pointed out in Sunday's DISY-ATCH, Gaudaur is going to row O'Connor, despite the fact of Teemer's superiority over Gaudaur. It is again repeated that there are features hard to understand about the proposed O'Connor, Gaudaur race. If the latter should win that the entire sporting world would have reason to be paralyzed, and all of us need not be surprised to know that Charley Carr, although easily beaten by Bubear, who was only third-class here, comes to the front and gives O'Connor and Gaudaur each ten seconds' start and a nor and Gaudaur each ten seconds' start and a ating. A local backer of Teemer and also Al. Hamm A local backer of Teemer and also Al. Hamm has stated frequently that another race must take place between the first named and O'Connor. That such a race will take place before summer time comes there is little doubt. There is money for Teemer yet, despite many discouraging features, and his challenge is by no means unexpected by practical people. Whether or not he will ever be able to defeat O'Connor is another matter. It is sufficient to know that he is willing to try.

WANT OUR BETTING SYSTEM.

Mr. Gasper Invited to Establish America Methods in France.

American turf ideas are evidently command ing attention from foreigners. As the turf has developed throughout the United States unique systems of betting and speculation have grown up. These have found favor with Europeans, so much so that Mr. E. R. Gasper, the well-known poolroom proprietor of this city, has been invited to Paris, France, with a view to establishing an American Turf Ex-change there. A friend of Mr. Gasper last change there. A friend of Mr. Gasper last evening said:

"A party of New York gentlemen who have business connections in Paris are wishful to form a turi exchange in the latter city, and have sent Mr. Gasper there to estimate as to the prospects. The idea is to have the combination system just as it is here and to sell on American races as well as English and French. It is not necessary that the results arrive on the day of the race as far as American races are concerned, until the system has been thoroughly tried. There is plenty of money behind the venture, and if Mr. Gasper thinks it safe to embark in the enterprise the plan will be tried. He will return some time in April."

President Reach Talks

PHILADELPHIA, January 15.—President Reach says he does not see why the Philadel-phia Club should object to Manager Sharsig's proposition as published yesterday. He says:
"If the Athletics wish to play New York and If the Athletics wish to play New York and Beston or New York and Pittsburg, what harm would that do us? We would like to play Brooklyn and Baltimore, and now that the objection is removed I think in all likelihood the game will be played. Will you please have Mr. Sharsig show us where his club is so much stronger than ours? Have we not beaten them more times than they have beaten us? Just wait until we get through signing our team, and we may have something to say to the Athletic Club."

New Orleans Baces.

NEW OBLEANS, January 15 .- The weather was cloudy and cool and the track good. First race, half mile—Radical won in .52%, Roche second, Florine third. Second race, three-quarters of a mile—Kittle Pease won in 1:17%, Dubme second, Argenta third.

Third race, Eve-eighths of a mile—Little Bess won in 104, Lord Grosvenor second, Vattell third.

Fourth race, Elicen-sixteenths of a mile—Probus won in 1:38%, Jim Williams second, Countess third.

Preparing for Decoration Day. The management of the Exposition Park have already decided to have a good day's sport on Decoration Day. They have come to this conclusion thus early so that owners of local horses can make up their minds regarding getting their horses ready for that time. There will be three good horse races at least, ranging from a 25 or 22 class to something about 350 for trotters and a 230 class for pacers. Besides these there will be an outside attraction which has not been decided on yet.

The Champion Offer. NEW YORK, January 15.-Sullivan's sponsor

in this city has received a letter from a prominent sporting man, a resident of El Paso, Tex., stating that he would not only guarantee Sullivan and Kilrain $10,000 to fight there, but also give assurance that 10,000 Mexicans would be present at the fight and prevent the au-thorities from interfering.

NEW YORK, January 15.-Manager Mutrie is thinking seriously of taking a team, made up of the New York colts, to Havana during February. If he finally decides to go, he will only remain there long enough to play on three Sun-days, so that he can get back about the middle of March. He will take the same team that he

WHAT MITCHELL SAYS. He Thinks Sullivan and Kilrain Will Never

Meet in Battle. Jake Kilrain and Charley Mitchell were at the Police Gazette office yesterday. Jake only stopped a few minutes and then started for Balore, where his mother is lying dangerously ill. Charley Mitchell, after a conference with Mr. Fox and Parson Davies, told the reporter that he would sail for England on the Britannic

"I shall return in about six weeks," he said, "and train Jake for his fight with Sullivan. 1 don't really believe there will be any fight, for Sullivan is a physical wreck. I am certain that his talk about wanting to fight is a bluff, and is only intended for advertising purposes. He wants to go around the country exhibiting himself, and he thinks this is a good way of advertising it."

Mitchell was asked if he had any definite Mitchell was asked if he had any definite plans in view on his return.

"No, I haven't." he replied. "Don't you think I ought to be in love with the country for the way I have been treated here? Some of the papers said that when eggs were thrown at us in Troy one of the eggs struck me in the forehead and ran down my face. That is a lle. None of the eggs struck me, but one of them hit Jake. The eggs were good ones, and not bad as reported. I should be very sorry if any of my friends, and I have friends here, should treat Sullivan as his friends treated me."

"Will you try to arrange any fights for yourself when you return?"

"No, I am not looking for fight, and never was. I am not that kind of a man."

Mitchell complained of his hands, and asid:
"I never had good hands, and I hurt the right one recently when I smashed that loafer, Hughey Burns. I sprained my thumb and wrist, but I hurt Hughey pretty bad."

The final stakeholder in the Sullivan-Kilrain match has not yet been selected, nor has the remainder of the Sl0,000 stakes been deposited. It is not likely that anything more will be done for a week or two.—N. T. Sun.

ABOUT SMITH'S DEFEAT. An English Authority Thinks He Tried to be

regarding George Smith, of this city, and the late Christmas Sheffield handicap: "George Smith's match with Ranson was a very practical commentary on the G. S. party's idea of what sort of a good thing the Christmas handicap at Sheffield ought to have been for the Pittsburg sprinter. According to them or their money, which may be counted as about one and the same, Smith was yards better than his losing heat with Wheeler made him. While Wheeler is practically beaten off by yards in the Wheeler is practically beaten off by yards in the handicap with the Wood Green performer, the man he is supposed to have defeated throws away all idea of form as between himself and the taker of the hig prize, and actually gives one and a quarter yards better terms than those on which he would have met the A. P. personare had they come together in the final heat. The thing looked too good, and it is not surprising it came to nothing. With regard to what has been said of the judge, there would be excuse for believing anything happening to an American at Sheffield after recent years record, but my invariable rule is to give a judge the benefit of any doubt I may entertain, because he is put in a privileged position to know, while others must allow for angles and one thing and another. Therefore, position to know, while others must allow for angles and one thing and another. Therefore, let it be understood and expressed that I am with the judge: also that I wonder at so old a hand as Smith—Smith of Pittsburg—drawing it as fine as he did with Wheeler when the money was down. No one can look at the racing and suppose for a second that Smith did not throw his heat away through over-confidence and over (supposed) cleverness. With regard to the eleverness of cutting it fine, allow me to express my sentiments, which are that there is (among the really clever) no such personage as a fine drawer when the pieces are down."

New Haven, Conn., January 15.—Captain Woodruff said to-day that the person who re-cently wrote the unauthorized letters to the boating authorities of Cambridge, England, to arrange a race between the Yale and Cam-bridge crews was Earnest L. Cadwell, stroke of the Yale crew in 1886 and 1887. Captain Woodruff explained that he and Cadwell last fall had a conversation, and Cadwell asked whether he a conversation, and Cadwell asked whether he could see any objection in writing to Cambridge on the subject of a race. Woodruff replied in the negative, meaning that Cadwell had better write, but that the communication had better come from the captain of the Yale navy, and Cadwell then wrote.

Captain Woodruff now thinks there is a chance for a race between Yale and Cambridge some time between August 1 and 15, but that there is little chance of a meeting between the Yale and Dublin University crews.

On the War Path.

Sporting Editor of the Dispatch: DEAR SIR-In reply to Mr. Connors' article in to-day's DISPATCH kindly state that if Mr. Connors will come to my weight in condition I am pertectly willing to fight to a finish with bare knuckles, Marquis of Queensberry rules; swing against him light and heavy clubs and all against him light and heavy clubs and also wrestle him for fun after my match with Mr. Ed Reilly, win or loose. I don't want Mr. Connors' $10, or no such offer. Any man can wrestle on the defensive; that's no offer at all. The reason why I did not challenge Mr. Connors was because, according to the talk of noted sporting men of this town, I judge Mr. Reilly a far superior man to Connors.

Holstein's Record. Joe Heideger, the popular local trotting horse owner, was in the city yesterday and talked about the prospects for the season. He said that the local stallion, Holstein, will almost for certain go through the circuit this amost for certain go through the circuit this year. Heideger will probably be behind him. The stallion's record is 2:29% made at Trenton last year, but Heideger plainly intimated that the heat in which that record was made was nearer 2:24% than anything else. Of course the correct time is often suppressed so as to keep a horse in a profitable class. It may be that Holstein's correct time was made 2:29% so as to keep him in the 2:30 class.

Some Promising Trotters. Tom Godfrey, the well-known horseman of this city, is erecting some first-class stables at Chartiers. He has four or five promising fillies by Oberlin, and two of them at least are ex-ceedingly promising. He has engaged Mr. James McGinley, of Fayette county, as trainer, and Mr. Gedfrey expects to have one or two good trotters in about two seasons from now. Jack Nagle, the old-time pitcher, well known to Pittsburgers, has resolved to apply for worl in the Tri-State League next season. Jack has been in Pittsburg several months, and thinks he can show up in his old-time form. If he can he will be a useful man for any Tri-State League club, either as a pitcher or a fielder. Sporting Notes.

At the Union Gun Club grounds, at Hendon, England, Monday, Captain Brewer, the famous American pigeon shot, was backed for $1,000 to kill 60 birds out 100 off the 35-yards mark. This is a difficult task for even the best marksmen, yet the Captain was successful. He killed the 60 in 81 shots.

WIT AGAINST FACTS.

Cute and Amusing Things Dene by Several Democratic Senators

MERELY FOR POLITICAL EFFECT.

South Dakota at Last Stepping Over the Threshold of Statehood.

THE COUNTRY OVERRUN WITH PAUPERS.

orth Carolina Rushes in the First Return of Electora Votes.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH! WASHINGTON, January 15 .- The tariff bill being practically done with, the Democrats are endeavoring to eke out the time that remains before the vote is taken, next Tuesday, in trying to glean something for party effect, and they do and say some very cute and amusing things. The Republican Senators, as a general thing, take them too seriously. There is no humorist like Vance or Vest on the Republican side, and consequently the lively and often extremely witty sallies of these two Senators osually receive answers that sound flat by compari son, though they may have the merit of being practical and to the point.

The proposition of Vest to-day, to strike attar of roses off the free list and insert salt, is a good example of the manner in which the tariff debate proceeds and will proceed until the end. But the witty sallies and sentimental, eloquent pleas of Vest for free salt were answered even more thoroughly than would have been expected by the array of evidence presented by the Republicans, showing how the price of salt had been cut down under the operation of the tariff, through the vast development of the industry.

SORT OF A SURPRISE. Most of the auditors were doubtless greatly surprised to hear from Senator Palmer that within 20 years salt has de-creased in price from $1 70 per barrel to 51 cents per barrel—the latter including the price of the barrel—and much of this reduction under the operation of what the Demo-erats called the Salt Trust.

It is the general verdict that the Repub-licans prove themselves to have digested the question in all its aspects much better than the Democrats. While the latter have the advantage in wit and sentiment, the argu-ments of the former have always a business ring which convinces, if it fails to divert and entertain. Delegations of workingmen asking for high tariff on all kinds of manufactured articles, and delegations of farmers asking for a tariff on all kinds of farm produce, to-gether with the results of the last elections, have produced a change. For instance, the last delegation which will be heard was that of to-day, a deputation of gardeners and farmers, which made demands as follows: A duty of 25 cents a bushel on potatoes, 15 cents a bushel on turnips, 2 cents a head or half a cent a pound on cabbage, and sauerkraut, which is a form of cabbage, taken off the free list; $4 a barrel or 1 cent a pound on cauliflower, in salt or brine: 5 cents a dozen on eggs or 3 cents a dozen on egg yolks or eserved eggs in any form.

MANY HAVE LOST HEART. Moreover, the Southern members have been hearing from their own constituents on this subject, and while they feel it to be imperative that they shall fight it ont pretty much on the line in which they started, so far as this bill is concerned, it is pretty evident that most of them have lost heart.

Nearly all of the work is done by Messrs. Vance and Vest. Mr. German is now rarely seen in the chamber during the debate, and the Democratic Senators who are known to have a divided opinion on the question never open their months. One of the most important admissions of the debate was made to-day by Mr. Vest, when he said that the President had gone too far when he declared in his message that the price of, every product on which a duty was levied was increased by exactly the amount of the duty. This shows that the anti-protectionists are making progress, as originally they all agreed with the President.

HOW NEW YORK WAS SPLIT. Senator Hiscock Says That Rum and Protection Were the Winners. WASHINGTON, January 15 .- In the course of the tariff discussion in the Senate to-day the results of the election in the State of New York came up, and Mr. Butler reminded Mr. Hiscock that, although the result was against Cleveland, it was in favor of Hill. The following colloquy ensued: "Oh, ves." said Mr. Hiscock, "wherever rum was on the banner Democracy was successful. "Had Romanism nothing to do with it?" Mr.

Butler asked, "or rebellion?"
"Mr. Hill," said Mr. Hiscock, "under the banner of rum, carried the State, and Harrison, under the banner of protection, carried son, under the banner of protection, carried it."

"Did not Governor Hill indorse the Mills bill?" Mr. Butler asked.

"Governor Hill," Mr. Hiscock replied, "is to have no voice on the Mills bill. He is to confine himself to the question of license—high license, low license or no license."

Mr. Butler—Did not the Chicago Convention indorse free whisky?

Mr. Hiscock—It did not. I ask the Senator from South Carolina if he is not quite ready to repeal the internal revenue tax on whisky—whether protection goes or not?

Mr. Butler—I would retain the tax on whisky.

Mr. Hiscock—Then you do not indorse the Mills bill?

Mills bill?
Mr. Butler—The Mills bill does not propose free whisky.

Mr. Hiscock—The Mills bill contains a proision which practically allows the tillation of whisky.

After five and a half hours of discussion the bill was laid aside, without a vote on the pending amendment, and after an executive session Senate adjourned.

SOUTH DAKOTA ALMOST IN.

New State Getting in Shape to Sit With

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 WASHINGTON, January 15.—At last a bill for the admission of the Territory of South Dakota is before the House of Representatives. For years this section of Uncle Sam's domain has been knocking at the door of Congress for admission, but she has been steadily refused by the Democrats unless she would agree to be included with the North part of the State, which was not so strongly tinctured with Republicanism at the South. The late elections, which were an eye-opener in so many ways, materially altered the view of the Democrats in Congress with regard to Dakota, which gave such a largely increased Republican majority almost solely on account of her bad treatment by the Democratic party. That brought the Democrats to time, and they are now willing to admit Dakota in any way as all, provided only she will hold no spite against them for past grievances.

Under Advisement.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH.1 HARRISBURG, January 15 .- Several ineresting cases were heard before the Board f Pardons to-day, among them that of Edward Coyle, of Pittsburg, convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to six years in the penitentiary. Edward F. Hays appeared for the prisoner. With the lling of Henry Meyer Covle had no con-Democratic speakers vie with the Repub lican speakers in most cases to say nice things of the new State that is to be, and doubtless when the speech makers are sat-isfied South Dakota will at once be made a section. Judge Bailey had written a letter in the interest of the prisoner, in which he maintained that Slattery had fired the fatal shot, but his (Hays') opinion was that the real murderer was Edward Coffey, who seemed to exercise a marvelous influence in the commu nity while he lived, to cover up his crime and thus prevented the truth in the case from being revealed. Since his violent death a number of facts had come to the sur-face which, to his mind, indicated that Cof-fey fired the shot which killed Meyer to release Slattery from the victim's grasp.

It was hard to speak of the dead, but Coffey reveled in blood. It was common for him to enter balls and other places and shoot at people, and he had the faculty of having his crimes concealed.

AFRAID TO TELL THE TRUTH. Several persons who had good means of formation had stated since Coffey's suicide (having been afraid to reveal their secret until his death) that he had committed the murder. It had been hoped that the sworn testimony of these men would be presented to the board at this meeting, but fear of prosecution for connection with the crime had deterred them from swearing to what they had said in conversation with detec-tives and others.

Reference was made to the fact that Officer Rost, of this city, had arrested Coffey shortly after the murder and found a reshortly after the murder and found a revolver on him, with one chamber empty, and of the caliber used in killing Meyer. There was no doubt that the man arrested by Rost was Coffey, and as the Catholic priest who received Coffey's confession shortly before his death had asked for Coyle's pardon, he believed that Coffey had confessed to the killing of Meyer, a secret which the priest was not permitted to reveal under the rules of the Church.

William Hall, alias William St Clair

William Hall, alias William St. Clair, who was intimate with Coffey, had gone so far as to have Mr. Hays write an affidavit charging the murder of Meyer to Coffey, but when asked to swear to the statement distrated by declined to desire the control of the contr dictated he declined to do so because the District Attorney of Allegheny county wouldn't give him the assurance that he wouldn't be prosecuted if he made a clean east of the matter.

THE PRAYER WELL SUSTAINED. The application for pardon was well sustained. The testimony of Officer Risch, criminating Coyle, was violently assailed for its inveracity. Detectives Coulson, O'Mara, Kelley, and Hennessey, clerk of the Coroner's jury, were among the people who believed Coyle innocent of the crime for which he was convicted. Roger O'Mara entertained a similar opinion. Langhurst, county detective when Coyle was arrested, also believed him guiltless of the killing. and H. H. Bengough and Edward Jenkins | loped on furiously, as if there was a horse | The Constitution Can be Stretched to Meet race instead of a jury trial, as though were a mere trial of the skill of counsel. Mrs. Coyle sought to inject a remark oc-casionally for the benefit of her son, but Mr. Hays counseled her to keep quiet. Numerous letters from people of prominence, familiar with the history and trial of the case, recommended Coyle's pardon and stated their belief in his innocence.

The depositions of Mrs. Rosa Ebel, Miss Rosa Ebel and Frank Ebel, submitted by Mr. Hays, state that James McMahon told them on the day Coffey committed suicide that he saw Coffey shoot Meyer. A communication from ex-Chief Blackmore was also filed, to the effect that information received by him convinced him that Coffey shot Meyer. HELD UNDER ADVISEMENT. The Board of Pardons in executive session to-night decided to hold the case of Coyle and McClure and Freyvogle under advisement. The cases of Peter Angelo Antonio Cesario, convicted of violating the Brooks law by selling cider, and Richard Splane. of Allegheny county, were unfavorably recommended.

Pardons were recommended in the follow-ing cases: William B. Stewart, burglary, Philadelphia, represented by ex-Senator Hood, of Indiana county; John Kelley, of Schurlill county; John Kelley, of Schuylkill county, convicted of arson.

A PAINFUL CASE.

Sad Story of the Causes That Drove a Man to Commit Crime. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 HARRISBURG, January 15 .- A painfully interesting case was heard before the Board of Pardons to-day. John Kelley, sentenced in Schuylkill county to eight years for arson, was a railroad engineer. His life was made miserable by the dissipated habits of his wife, whom he found drunk frequently when he returned home for his meals. Finding out where she obtained the liquor he is alleged to have notified the proprietor of the place to cease furnishing it to her. He was told that his request wouldn't be com-plied with, as the proprietor proposed to take advantage of every opportunity to make money.

One night he entered his house to find not only his wife helplessly drunk but his young daughter, just budding into woman-hood, in a similar condition, both prostrate on the floor. He was unable to control him-self, and immediately started out of the house and set fire to the place where his wife had been getting her liquor. Among those who have asked for the pardon of Kelley is Cadwallader Biddle, general agent of the State Board of Public Charities, who says he has none of the elements of the criminal in his composit GAMBLING THEIR ONLY FAULT.

Everett in for Platt. INDIANAPOLIS, January 15 .- The Ohio electors met this morning prior to starting for General Harrison's, and unanimously chose the Hon. S. T. Everett, of Cleveland to act as their chairman and spokesman. About 11 o'clock they visited the Presidentelect and were cordially received by both the General and Mrs. Harrison. Mr. Everett introduced the electors to General and Mrs. Harrison, and a pleasant half hour was passed in general conversation. General Harrison remarked: "Now that you have formally elected me,

I suppose I may go on with the formation of a Cabinet." of a Cabinet."

"Certainly, General; do you want any help?" facetiously inquired Judge Devoe. The General did not reply, and no further reference was made to political matters. The visitors expressed themselves as highly gratified with their trip, and returned home this morning.

During the afternoon Mr. Everett had a long private conference with the President elect. He stated that his visit was a socia one, but it is suspected that no visit was a social one, but it is suspected that political matters were discussed, as Mr. Everett was also in conference with Colonel John C. New during the afternoon. It could not be learned that Everett was advocating any particular name as Cabinet quantity. He is known, however, to be an ardent sup-porter of ex-Senator Platt, but declined to tell whether he urged Mr. Platt's appointment or what passed in his conference with the President-elect. He returned home this evening.

As the Ohio delegation was about to take their leave the Illinois electors were announced, and were likewise received by General and Mrs. Harrison. The Illinois delegation included ex-Secretary of State

MORE ARMS FOR HAYTI.

The Saginaw Clears With a Warlike Cargo for Dominican Ports. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. 1

NEW YORK, January 15 .- The Clyde steamer Saginaw sailed late this afternoon, having cleared for Dominican ports. Minister Preston was out of town, but Secretary of Legation Charles Preston declares that with the Saginaw went 60 cases of rifles, 200 boxes of union metallic cartridges, and four cannon of 30 pounds caliber, which were put in the hold as ballast. The cases were marked "B. and S.," and a portion of them went to Porto Plata, while the rest were consigned to Samana, for which port Con-sul Julia's little steamer recently sailed, Mr. Preston further says that these goods came from the warehouse of Hartley & Graham, 38 West street, and were put on drays marked "Brunner's Musical Instrument

An effort was made with Collector Magone to have him prevent the Saginaw from sailing with these arms, but the Dominican Consul, Mr. Julia, had already explained to Mr. Magone that his President, M. Herana, had ordered them for his own use, and had had them sent to out-of-the-way towns to avoid creating the suspicion that he was going to war. Mr. Preston said the arms were sent to Porto Plata because the Haytian Consul at that point, A. W. Lithgon, for some reason, continued to see fit to clear vessels for Cape Haytien, in spite of the demands of Legitime's Government.

COOLEY ON COMMERCE.

ALBANY, January 15 .- Hon. Thomas M. Cooley, Chairman of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, by invitation was the orator at the annual meeting of the State Bar Association, at the Assembly chamber here to-day, and his subject was: "The Comparative Merits of a Written and Unwritten Constitution." In closing he said: It may be that by and by the Federal Legislature, surveying the field of inter-State commerce, and taking note of how State commerce encroaches upon and intermingles with it, crowding it in the same vehicles on the same roads, sharing with it the same expenses, rates which are imposed on one necessarily affecting rates that can be accepted on the other, and being handled at the same time by the same hands, under the same official control, will come to the conclusion that separate regulation of State commerce must necessarily be to some extent, at least, and may be, to a large extent, inconsistent with a complete Federal regulation of commerce that is inter-State.

Should that conclusion be reached, the Federal Legislature is not unlikely to take to itself the complete regulation of the whole, and if it shall do so it will but add another to the many illustrations already to be seen in our history, which show how vast is the edifice that may rightfully be creeted within the bounds of the single Federal powers which at first seemed of little importance. encroaches upon and intermingles with it,

The esteem, confidence and good wishes of one's neighbors are things to be highly prized and are a crown to any man's life. When I came to this Territory nine years ago, I came to make it my future home, and it has been a source of great gratification to me that I have been permitted during my residence here to join you in efforts that have resulted in the thorough settlement and development of a good-sized portion of the last of the frontier in form you in emorts that have resulted in the thorough settlement and development of a good-sized portion of the last of the frontier in the United States. We are now knocking loudly and energetically for admission as a State of the Union and for the boon of self-government, a fundamental principle desired here as earnestly now as it was in Massachusetts in 1776.

HIS HITMBLE WORK . I have been absent for many months doi:

what I could in an humble way to further my father's nomination for the office of President of the United States, and afterward his election. During my absence rumors of va-rious kinds have appeared in the pub-lic press that I had left Helena and lic press that I had left Helena and Montana to take up my residence in other places. I wish to assure you to-night that there is not the slightest foundation in fact for any rumors of that character. I am still, and intend so to remain, a citizen of Helena and of Montana Territory. I still register, when I dare just now to register at all, as from Helena, Montana.

You have not called upon me 'for an expression of my intentions, but it may afford relief to some in this Territory to know that I do not desire and will not accept any public office. As to some in this Territory to know that I do not desire and will not accept any public office. As a citizen of Montana, and as a member of that great army of people who claim to be intelligent citizens of the United States, but who are not permitted to take any part in the election of a President or to govern themselves, and as a still small number of the army who have never been permitted to cast a single vote for a President of the United States, I took deep and active interest in the success of the Republican party and its candidate during the last campaign, because I believed and in fact know that Republican success meant increased prosperity and great adcess meant increased prosperity and great advancement to Montana and her sister Territories. The Republican can didate, as Senator of the United States, made a record as a friend of the Territories that met with generous approval in the great far West. A TERRITORIAL BOOM.

I believe there will be no impropriety in my saying now, and I know it will give you encouragement and hope, that his record as President of the United States, in reference to the Territories, will meet greater approval from the cit-izens of Montana and other Territories, Democrats and Republicans alike. I am not sure now I will have much influence with the next administration, but what influence I will have you can rest assured will be exerted for the development and prosperity of Montana and in calling attention to the fact, where I can with propriety, that there are men in the Territories as intelligent to the fact, what there are men in the Territories as intelligent, as well qualified and as honest for the creditable discharge of the duties of any public office as can be found in any State of the Union.

A DESPERADO'S DEATH. He is Shot From Ambush for the Sake of a Large Reward. ST LOUIS, January 15 .- Wesley Barnett, half-breed Creek Indian, up to last Saturday was the most fearless desperado in the Indian Territory. He was the leader of a desperate band of horse thieves and general outlaws, and for years had run riot over the Creek nation, depredating upon property and slaying in cold blood nearly everyone who had opposed him, or who had attempted to arrest him. A few months ago he deliberately murdered United States Marshal Phillips near Enfaula, and later killed the noted Mose McIntosh, of the Creek police, and wounded two or three others while they were attempting to arrest him.

He openly defied all law, and during the late session of the House of Warriors of the Creek nation stood before that body and dared anyone to take him. A large reward was offered for him dead or alive, and last Saturday Wallace McNac, a Creek Indian, lay in ambush for him near Okmulgee, and when the daring outlaw appeared emptied both barrels of his shotgun, loaded with buckshot, into his body, killing him in-

A SCIENTIFIC LECTURE.

Alchemy and Modern Chemistry Discussed by Prof. Langley. Prof. John W. Langley, of Ann Harbor University, gave a very interesting lecture last night to the society of the King's Sons at St. Peter's Church, entitled "Alchemy and Modern Chemistry."

After speaking of the ancient origin of the Pseudo-science of alchemy among the Egyptians, the lecturer gave a historical sketch of its career until the middle ages, when it prevailed all over Europe. The chief object of the student of Alchemy was to gain possession of three things, viz: The philosopher's stone for the purpose of making gold out of the base metals; the elixir of life, which lent its possessor perpetual youth; and the little elixir, which had the characteristic of changing lead into silver.

The professor stated that the alchemist was thoroughly imbued with the fact that was thoroughly imputed with the fact that with the possession of all, or either of these treasures, their object could be achieved. A failure was invariably ascribed to the in-fluence of a witch or wizard. "While speaking of these the lecturer quoted a few lines from a book written by Pope Gregory VII. against the witches, where it said: "This is the reason why there are more witches than wizards. For what is woman? But an enemy of friendship, a foe to truth, a snare unto many a domestic discord, a natural temptation, a desirable misfortune, a perpetual fountain of tears, and a mischief of nature overlaid with a glittering varnish." From Alchemy, astrology sprang into existence, for the people believed that every human being was influenced by some star in the sky. The greatest distinction be-tween the alchemist of the pust and the chemist of to-day," the professor stated, "lies in the fact that while those pseudo scientists believed in the action of an occult power from without to influence a chemical body, we now agree that this power is active within the body itself. The dawn of modern chemistry broke out with the birth of the present century; before that all was dark A vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer
